

Our Religious Column.

IN THE DARK.

There come seasons of darkness in our lives. Who has not known them? Times when there is neither sun, nor moon, nor star in the sky, and we stand still in fear and gloom, and in trembling uncertainty.

A few years ago, there fell upon my life one of these seasons, in which I could see neither to the right, nor to the left. A terror of darkness was upon me.

One night I lay awake, thinking, thinking until my brain grew wild with uncertainty. I could see no way out of my darkness, and I feared to move onward lest with the next foot-fall I should plunge into hopeless ruin.

Very severely I tempted to turn aside from the way in which I was going—a way reason and conscience approved as right; but something held me back. Again and again I took up and considered the difficulties of my situation, looking to the right hand and the left for rays of salvation; now resolving to go in this direction, and now in that; yet always held away from my resolve by inner convictions of right and duty, that grew clear at the moment when I was ready to give up my hold on anxiety.

So the hours went heavily, until past midnight. My little daughter was sleeping in the crib beside my bed. But now she began to move restlessly, and presently her timid voice broke faintly the still air.

"Papa! papa!" she called.

"What is it, darling?" I asked.

"Oh, papa! I'm dark! Take me to bed!"

I reached out my hand and took her tiny one in my own, clasping it firmly. A sigh of relief came up from her little heart. All her loneliness and fear were gone, and in a few moments she was sound asleep.

"Oh my Father in Heaven!" I cried, in a sudden, almost wild, outburst of feeling—"It is dark, very dark. Take my hand!"

A fresh peace fell upon me. The terror of darkness was gone. I held of my hand, oh, my Father! I prayed fervently, and though I should be called to walk through the valley and the shadows of death, I will fear no evil. Let not my feet wander to the right or to the left.

"Sleep, that knave up the ravelled pieces of care," fell softly on my eyelids, and morning broke with scarce a seeming interval of time. I felt calm and strong. The day was to be one of service, and I did not feel that I was in any danger of being lost.

But the highest and dearest of all my possessions is mine integrity, which, if for the hand of my Father, grasped in darkness, I should have lost—Arthur's Home Magazine.

How to read the Bible.

1. Read, sometimes, one verse at a time.

2. Read, sometimes, a whole chapter at a time.

3. Read, sometimes, a whole book at a time.

4. Read, sometimes, a whole Bible at a time.

Wilson & Hutchison's Column.

IN THE DARK.

There come seasons of darkness in our lives. Who has not known them? Times when there is neither sun, nor moon, nor star in the sky, and we stand still in fear and gloom, and in trembling uncertainty.

A few years ago, there fell upon my life one of these seasons, in which I could see neither to the right, nor to the left. A terror of darkness was upon me.

One night I lay awake, thinking, thinking until my brain grew wild with uncertainty. I could see no way out of my darkness, and I feared to move onward lest with the next foot-fall I should plunge into hopeless ruin.

Very severely I tempted to turn aside from the way in which I was going—a way reason and conscience approved as right; but something held me back. Again and again I took up and considered the difficulties of my situation, looking to the right hand and the left for rays of salvation; now resolving to go in this direction, and now in that; yet always held away from my resolve by inner convictions of right and duty, that grew clear at the moment when I was ready to give up my hold on anxiety.

So the hours went heavily, until past midnight. My little daughter was sleeping in the crib beside my bed. But now she began to move restlessly, and presently her timid voice broke faintly the still air.

"Papa! papa!" she called.

"What is it, darling?" I asked.

"Oh, papa! I'm dark! Take me to bed!"

I reached out my hand and took her tiny one in my own, clasping it firmly. A sigh of relief came up from her little heart. All her loneliness and fear were gone, and in a few moments she was sound asleep.

"Oh my Father in Heaven!" I cried, in a sudden, almost wild, outburst of feeling—"It is dark, very dark. Take my hand!"

A fresh peace fell upon me. The terror of darkness was gone. I held of my hand, oh, my Father! I prayed fervently, and though I should be called to walk through the valley and the shadows of death, I will fear no evil. Let not my feet wander to the right or to the left.

"Sleep, that knave up the ravelled pieces of care," fell softly on my eyelids, and morning broke with scarce a seeming interval of time. I felt calm and strong. The day was to be one of service, and I did not feel that I was in any danger of being lost.

But the highest and dearest of all my possessions is mine integrity, which, if for the hand of my Father, grasped in darkness, I should have lost—Arthur's Home Magazine.

How to read the Bible.

1. Read, sometimes, one verse at a time.

2. Read, sometimes, a whole chapter at a time.

3. Read, sometimes, a whole book at a time.

4. Read, sometimes, a whole Bible at a time.

Insurance—Dry Goods—Groceries, &c.

IN THE DARK.

There come seasons of darkness in our lives. Who has not known them? Times when there is neither sun, nor moon, nor star in the sky, and we stand still in fear and gloom, and in trembling uncertainty.

A few years ago, there fell upon my life one of these seasons, in which I could see neither to the right, nor to the left. A terror of darkness was upon me.

One night I lay awake, thinking, thinking until my brain grew wild with uncertainty. I could see no way out of my darkness, and I feared to move onward lest with the next foot-fall I should plunge into hopeless ruin.

Very severely I tempted to turn aside from the way in which I was going—a way reason and conscience approved as right; but something held me back. Again and again I took up and considered the difficulties of my situation, looking to the right hand and the left for rays of salvation; now resolving to go in this direction, and now in that; yet always held away from my resolve by inner convictions of right and duty, that grew clear at the moment when I was ready to give up my hold on anxiety.

So the hours went heavily, until past midnight. My little daughter was sleeping in the crib beside my bed. But now she began to move restlessly, and presently her timid voice broke faintly the still air.

"Papa! papa!" she called.

"What is it, darling?" I asked.

"Oh, papa! I'm dark! Take me to bed!"

I reached out my hand and took her tiny one in my own, clasping it firmly. A sigh of relief came up from her little heart. All her loneliness and fear were gone, and in a few moments she was sound asleep.

"Oh my Father in Heaven!" I cried, in a sudden, almost wild, outburst of feeling—"It is dark, very dark. Take my hand!"

A fresh peace fell upon me. The terror of darkness was gone. I held of my hand, oh, my Father! I prayed fervently, and though I should be called to walk through the valley and the shadows of death, I will fear no evil. Let not my feet wander to the right or to the left.

"Sleep, that knave up the ravelled pieces of care," fell softly on my eyelids, and morning broke with scarce a seeming interval of time. I felt calm and strong. The day was to be one of service, and I did not feel that I was in any danger of being lost.

But the highest and dearest of all my possessions is mine integrity, which, if for the hand of my Father, grasped in darkness, I should have lost—Arthur's Home Magazine.

How to read the Bible.

1. Read, sometimes, one verse at a time.

2. Read, sometimes, a whole chapter at a time.

3. Read, sometimes, a whole book at a time.

4. Read, sometimes, a whole Bible at a time.

Miscellaneous.

IN THE DARK.

There come seasons of darkness in our lives. Who has not known them? Times when there is neither sun, nor moon, nor star in the sky, and we stand still in fear and gloom, and in trembling uncertainty.

A few years ago, there fell upon my life one of these seasons, in which I could see neither to the right, nor to the left. A terror of darkness was upon me.

One night I lay awake, thinking, thinking until my brain grew wild with uncertainty. I could see no way out of my darkness, and I feared to move onward lest with the next foot-fall I should plunge into hopeless ruin.

Very severely I tempted to turn aside from the way in which I was going—a way reason and conscience approved as right; but something held me back. Again and again I took up and considered the difficulties of my situation, looking to the right hand and the left for rays of salvation; now resolving to go in this direction, and now in that; yet always held away from my resolve by inner convictions of right and duty, that grew clear at the moment when I was ready to give up my hold on anxiety.

So the hours went heavily, until past midnight. My little daughter was sleeping in the crib beside my bed. But now she began to move restlessly, and presently her timid voice broke faintly the still air.

"Papa! papa!" she called.

"What is it, darling?" I asked.

"Oh, papa! I'm dark! Take me to bed!"

I reached out my hand and took her tiny one in my own, clasping it firmly. A sigh of relief came up from her little heart. All her loneliness and fear were gone, and in a few moments she was sound asleep.

"Oh my Father in Heaven!" I cried, in a sudden, almost wild, outburst of feeling—"It is dark, very dark. Take my hand!"

A fresh peace fell upon me. The terror of darkness was gone. I held of my hand, oh, my Father! I prayed fervently, and though I should be called to walk through the valley and the shadows of death, I will fear no evil. Let not my feet wander to the right or to the left.

"Sleep, that knave up the ravelled pieces of care," fell softly on my eyelids, and morning broke with scarce a seeming interval of time. I felt calm and strong. The day was to be one of service, and I did not feel that I was in any danger of being lost.

But the highest and dearest of all my possessions is mine integrity, which, if for the hand of my Father, grasped in darkness, I should have lost—Arthur's Home Magazine.

How to read the Bible.

1. Read, sometimes, one verse at a time.

2. Read, sometimes, a whole chapter at a time.

3. Read, sometimes, a whole book at a time.

4. Read, sometimes, a whole Bible at a time.

Miscellaneous.

IN THE DARK.

There come seasons of darkness in our lives. Who has not known them? Times when there is neither sun, nor moon, nor star in the sky, and we stand still in fear and gloom, and in trembling uncertainty.

A few years ago, there fell upon my life one of these seasons, in which I could see neither to the right, nor to the left. A terror of darkness was upon me.

One night I lay awake, thinking, thinking until my brain grew wild with uncertainty. I could see no way out of my darkness, and I feared to move onward lest with the next foot-fall I should plunge into hopeless ruin.

Very severely I tempted to turn aside from the way in which I was going—a way reason and conscience approved as right; but something held me back. Again and again I took up and considered the difficulties of my situation, looking to the right hand and the left for rays of salvation; now resolving to go in this direction, and now in that; yet always held away from my resolve by inner convictions of right and duty, that grew clear at the moment when I was ready to give up my hold on anxiety.

So the hours went heavily, until past midnight. My little daughter was sleeping in the crib beside my bed. But now she began to move restlessly, and presently her timid voice broke faintly the still air.

"Papa! papa!" she called.

"What is it, darling?" I asked.

"Oh, papa! I'm dark! Take me to bed!"

I reached out my hand and took her tiny one in my own, clasping it firmly. A sigh of relief came up from her little heart. All her loneliness and fear were gone, and in a few moments she was sound asleep.

"Oh my Father in Heaven!" I cried, in a sudden, almost wild, outburst of feeling—"It is dark, very dark. Take my hand!"

A fresh peace fell upon me. The terror of darkness was gone. I held of my hand, oh, my Father! I prayed fervently, and though I should be called to walk through the valley and the shadows of death, I will fear no evil. Let not my feet wander to the right or to the left.

"Sleep, that knave up the ravelled pieces of care," fell softly on my eyelids, and morning broke with scarce a seeming interval of time. I felt calm and strong. The day was to be one of service, and I did not feel that I was in any danger of being lost.

But the highest and dearest of all my possessions is mine integrity, which, if for the hand of my Father, grasped in darkness, I should have lost—Arthur's Home Magazine.

How to read the Bible.

1. Read, sometimes, one verse at a time.

2. Read, sometimes, a whole chapter at a time.

3. Read, sometimes, a whole book at a time.

4. Read, sometimes, a whole Bible at a time.

Dry Goods, Hardware, Real Estate, &c.

IN THE DARK.

There come seasons of darkness in our lives. Who has not known them? Times when there is neither sun, nor moon, nor star in the sky, and we stand still in fear and gloom, and in trembling uncertainty.

A few years ago, there fell upon my life one of these seasons, in which I could see neither to the right, nor to the left. A terror of darkness was upon me.

One night I lay awake, thinking, thinking until my brain grew wild with uncertainty. I could see no way out of my darkness, and I feared to move onward lest with the next foot-fall I should plunge into hopeless ruin.

Very severely I tempted to turn aside from the way in which I was going—a way reason and conscience approved as right; but something held me back. Again and again I took up and considered the difficulties of my situation, looking to the right hand and the left for rays of salvation; now resolving to go in this direction, and now in that; yet always held away from my resolve by inner convictions of right and duty, that grew clear at the moment when I was ready to give up my hold on anxiety.

So the hours went heavily, until past midnight. My little daughter was sleeping in the crib beside my bed. But now she began to move restlessly, and presently her timid voice broke faintly the still air.

"Papa! papa!" she called.

"What is it, darling?" I asked.

"Oh, papa! I'm dark! Take me to bed!"

I reached out my hand and took her tiny one in my own, clasping it firmly. A sigh of relief came up from her little heart. All her loneliness and fear were gone, and in a few moments she was sound asleep.

"Oh my Father in Heaven!" I cried, in a sudden, almost wild, outburst of feeling—"It is dark, very dark. Take my hand!"

A fresh peace fell upon me. The terror of darkness was gone. I held of my hand, oh, my Father! I prayed fervently, and though I should be called to walk through the valley and the shadows of death, I will fear no evil. Let not my feet wander to the right or to the left.

"Sleep, that knave up the ravelled pieces of care," fell softly on my eyelids, and morning broke with scarce a seeming interval of time. I felt calm and strong. The day was to be one of service, and I did not feel that I was in any danger of being lost.

But the highest and dearest of all my possessions is mine integrity, which, if for the hand of my Father, grasped in darkness, I should have lost—Arthur's Home Magazine.

How to read the Bible.

1. Read, sometimes, one verse at a time.

2. Read, sometimes, a whole chapter at a time.

3. Read, sometimes, a whole book at a time.

4. Read, sometimes, a whole Bible at a time.

Miscellaneous.

IN THE DARK.

There come seasons of darkness in our lives. Who has not known them? Times when there is neither sun, nor moon, nor star in the sky, and we stand still in fear and gloom, and in trembling uncertainty.

A few years ago, there fell upon my life one of these seasons, in which I could see neither to the right, nor to the left. A terror of darkness was upon me.

One night I lay awake, thinking, thinking until my brain grew wild with uncertainty. I could see no way out of my darkness, and I feared to move onward lest with the next foot-fall I should plunge into hopeless ruin.

Very severely I tempted to turn aside from the way in which I was going—a way reason and conscience approved as right; but something held me back. Again and again I took up and considered the difficulties of my situation, looking to the right hand and the left for rays of salvation; now resolving to go in this direction, and now in that; yet always held away from my resolve by inner convictions of right and duty, that grew clear at the moment when I was ready to give up my hold on anxiety.

So the hours went heavily, until past midnight. My little daughter was sleeping in the crib beside my bed. But now she began to move restlessly, and presently her timid voice broke faintly the still air.

"Papa! papa!" she called.

"What is it, darling?" I asked.

"Oh, papa! I'm dark! Take me to bed!"

I reached out my hand and took her tiny one in my own, clasping it firmly. A sigh of relief came up from her little heart. All her loneliness and fear were gone, and in a few moments she was sound asleep.

"Oh my Father in Heaven!" I cried, in a sudden, almost wild, outburst of feeling—"It is dark, very dark. Take my hand!"

A fresh peace fell upon me. The terror of darkness was gone. I held of my hand, oh, my Father! I prayed fervently, and though I should be called to walk through the valley and the shadows of death, I will fear no evil. Let not my feet wander to the right or to the left.

"Sleep, that knave up the ravelled pieces of care," fell softly on my eyelids, and morning broke with scarce a seeming interval of time. I felt calm and strong. The day was to be one of service, and I did not feel that I was in any danger of being lost.

But the highest and dearest of all my possessions is mine integrity, which, if for the hand of my Father, grasped in darkness, I should have lost—Arthur's Home Magazine.

How to read the Bible.

1. Read, sometimes, one verse at a time.

2. Read, sometimes, a whole chapter at a time.

3. Read, sometimes, a whole book at a time.

4. Read, sometimes, a whole Bible at a time.

Miscellaneous.

IN THE DARK.

There come seasons of darkness in our lives. Who has not known them? Times when there is neither sun, nor moon, nor star in the sky, and we stand still in fear and gloom, and in trembling uncertainty.

A few years ago, there fell upon my life one of these seasons, in which I could see neither to the right, nor to the left. A terror of darkness was upon me.

One night I lay awake, thinking, thinking until my brain grew wild with uncertainty. I could see no way out of my darkness, and I feared to move onward lest with the next foot-fall I should plunge into hopeless ruin.

Very severely I tempted to turn aside from the way in which I was going—a way reason and conscience approved as right; but something held me back. Again and again I took up and considered the difficulties of my situation, looking to the right hand and the left for rays of salvation; now resolving to go in this direction, and now in that; yet always held away from my resolve by inner convictions of right and duty, that grew clear at the moment when I was ready to give up my hold on anxiety.

So the hours went heavily, until past midnight. My little daughter was sleeping in the crib beside my bed. But now she began to move restlessly, and presently her timid voice broke faintly the still air.

"Papa! papa!" she called.

"What is it, darling?" I asked.

"Oh, papa! I'm dark! Take me to bed!"

I reached out my hand and took her tiny one in my own, clasping it firmly. A sigh of relief came up from her little heart. All her loneliness and fear were gone, and in a few moments she was sound asleep.

"Oh my Father in Heaven!" I cried, in a sudden, almost wild, outburst of feeling—"It is dark, very dark. Take my hand!"

A fresh peace fell upon me. The terror of darkness was gone. I held of my hand, oh, my Father! I prayed fervently, and though I should be called to walk through the valley and the shadows of death, I will fear no evil. Let not my feet wander to the right or to the left.

"Sleep, that knave up the ravelled pieces of care," fell softly on my eyelids, and morning broke with scarce a seeming interval of time. I felt calm and strong. The day was to be one of service, and I did not feel that I was in any danger of being lost.

But the highest and dearest of all my possessions is mine integrity, which, if for the hand of my Father, grasped in darkness, I should have lost—Arthur's Home Magazine.

How to read the Bible.

1. Read, sometimes, one verse at a time.

2. Read, sometimes, a whole chapter at a time.

3. Read, sometimes, a whole book at a time.

4. Read, sometimes, a whole Bible at a time.

B. A. R. G. A. I. N. S. D. R. Y. G. O. O. D. S.

WILSON & HUTCHISON'S

DRY GOODS

EMPORIUM.

NO. 105 MAIN ST., LEXINGTON.

M. F. ROYLE,

DEALER IN

Staple & Fancy Dry Goods

NOTIONS AND WHITE GOODS,

A full line of the best

Also a full line of

Watkins' Cassimeres, Jeans, Flannels, and Yarn

Hats and Caps, Boots and Shoes.

NO. 91 MAIN STREET, LEXINGTON, MO.

Call and examine for yourself before you make your purchases. I promise to make it to your interest to do so.

JEFF. W. BEDFORD

DEALER IN

CHINA, GLASS AND QUEENSWARE

HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS,

A FULL ASSORTMENT BEST SILVER-PLATED SPOONS & FORKS,

TABLE CUTLERY, TEA TRAYS, BRUSHES, &c.

LOOKING GLASSES, BASKETS, &c.

LAMPS AND

BURNERS & CHIMNEYS.

A. A. & J. O. LESUEUR,

Wholesale and Retail Grocers

CORNER OF MAIN AND PINE, LEXINGTON.

HAVE ON HAND AND KEEP ALWAYS A FULL AND

CHOICE STOCK OF

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS,

WINE,

LIQUORS,

TOBACCO,

CIGARS,

COAL OIL,

STOVES,

IRON, HORSE SHOES, NAILS, &c.

ZEILER BROTHERS,

NO. 69 MAIN ST., LEXINGTON.

DEALERS IN

HARDWARE, IRON, STEEL, &c.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF CUTLERY.

Sole Agents for the Celebrated

BUCK & WRIGHT

Cooking Stoves,

Stoves that have taken eleven different Premiums, at the New Orleans, Memphis, St. Louis, and other principal Fairs in the United States.

We are doing Tin Gutting and roofing, and all kinds of Job Work lower than can be had in the city, and every job warranted.

The largest assortment of Heating and Cooking stoves ever seen in the city. Fifty styles of Parlor, Office & Bed room Stoves.

We are exclusive agents for the celebrated

Neyser Furnaces

For Heating Dwellings, Churches, Public Buildings, &c., with fuel.

ALL STYLES & KINDS OF TINWARE.

Blacksmiths can find all kinds of

by calling on to

We do not intend to be undersold in anything that is in our line. We respectfully solicit a call from all who want goods in our line, and see for yourselves. Every Buck & Wright stove sold, is warranted to heat well, not to crack by fire. Any one that may not be satisfied, can return the stove, and we will refund the money.

ZEILER BROTHERS,

WHOLESALE & RETAIL

STOVES.

Tin, Sheet Iron, & Copper Ware

Stamped, Japanned and Hollow Ware.

Has for sale all kinds of high, medium and low priced stoves of all kinds and makes, among which is the celebrated

"MANTOLA" COOKING STOVE.

The best constructed, the best operating and the most in use stove made. Manufactured in this city. Warranted to do anything and everything required of a cooking stove, in the best manner and in the shortest time, and if it does not give entire satisfaction can be returned, and the money refunded, also all plates breaking from heat will be replaced at our expense without charge.

Customers supplied with tinware at St. Louis prices.

PERSONAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO

GUTTERING, SPOUTING, ROOFING,

AND ALL KINDS OF JOB WORK.

All work done by me will be warranted to give satisfaction, if no charge will be made.

J. W. RINEHART,

1st Nat. Bank, opp. the City Hotel.

GUARD & HALLARD,

MAIN ST., LEXINGTON, MO.

D. RUSSELL & CO.,

Old Stand of Mendenhall and Russell.